THAW TOOK POISON AND PROPOSED DOUBLE SUICIDE ITCHING ECZEMA

"I simply told Mr. Thaw." she explained, "that I had gone with Stanford White several times to els room, and Harry knew what I meant I never used to him the words which you insist on using, Mr. Jerome."

"Why did you go to Europe with Harry Thaw?"

"Why did you go to Europe with Harry Thaw?"

"I was in love with him, but I did not want to marry him. Wanted to be with him."

Mrs. Thaw told of their travels in Europe. She travelled as Evelyn Nesbit. She had never used the name of Mrs. Dallas, she said.

Mr. Jerome caused her to tell of going Mr. Jerome cat away?

"I did."

"Did you at the last trial, give any account of Harry Thaw's attempted to the would make Harry out to be careau."

"Well insanity was the defense at the last trial, wasn't it?" shouted Jerome.

"I object," said Mr. Littleton. "that is a matter of record."

"Sustained, and very properly so, said Justive Dowling, and then he pit ceeded to lecture Mr. Jerome briefly on his manner of conducting the cross-examination.

Mrs. Dallas, she said.

Mr. Jerome caused her to tell of going to the ruined castle, "Schloss Katzenstein," in the Tyrol, with Thaw. The couple lived together several weeks there.

According to the statement attributed to the young woman in Abe Hummel's affidavit, it was at this old castle that Harry Thaw beat her with a dog whip Mr. Jerome carried her through ner travels, from Paris to Munich, to some German lakes, and then suddenly switched back once more to the night of the shooting. Mrs. Thaw insisted, despite a long bombardment of queries, that she was sitting in Martin's, facing the entrance, when White entered, Mr. Jerome then resumed the European travels, taking Mrs. Thaw to Switzerland. He was jumping over the map in seven-league boots.

"Did you tell Harry Thaw that up to that failal night States and the name of conducting the cross-ex-amination.

A little later the badgered girl on the witness chair shot this retort at her tormentor:

"Mr. Jerome, I don't understand you. I refuse to answer your question until I can find out what you mean."

Jerome Brings in Natice and the witness chair shot this retort at her tormentor:

"Mr. Jerome, I don't understand you. I refuse to answer your question until I can find out what you mean."

Jerome Brings in Natice is the themotors of the evidence which Evelyn Thaw gave at the last trial. In a sing-song, nagging voice he emphasis on the most sickening sentences. During this scene the woman on the stand whitened perceptibly.

Mrs. Thaw said she had seen the teters last in her lawyer's office. They were written by White after the incident in the studio.

"Did yo tell Thaw that the people it White's party behaved properly?"

"I did."

"And that you had a very nice time and ate chocolate eclairs?"

"I'did."
